

CURLERS SIGN UP FOR SEASON

— Skips are Busy Getting Their Rinks Filled—McLaws Heads the Cavalry Club— 1922-23.

Curlers who expect to head a rink in the local curling club this winter are being asked to get their names in and from all reports the ranks are filling up fast. Since the annual meeting of the curling association, five rinks have been filled, and others have two or three men, skips and second men, waiting to complete their rinks and turn in the names to the secretary.

Enthusiastic curlers turned out to the annual meeting held last evening in W. K. Webb's office. The following were elected to office for the 1933-34 season: President, W. O. Ordine; Vice-President, W. H. Beecher; Secretary, J. McDonald; Treasurer, H. J. McDonald; Chaplain, H. N. Johnson; Auditor, J. N. Donaldson.

At the meeting the duties of the president, vice president, and secretary treasurer.

For the 1933-34 curling season were fixed at $10 for senior members and $5.00 for juniors. This was a record.

Skips were not elected. Any curler who can get a rink together will be

A new penalty system was adopted. This season one penalty will be paid for a substitute of a higher ranking. Thus, a skip can substitute for lead or second man with a penalty of only one point. The motion to adopt the old penalty system of 1-2-3 points was defeated.

The club starts the season in fairly good financial condition, there being $22.25 in the treasury. The club will affiliate again with the Royal Canadian Curling Club.

It was a most successful meeting, and the signs indicate a good season.

ahead for the curling club.

For their links and a number of them already have their broom quartets assembled.

At this winter meeting will join the club this winter, and perhaps a few new ships will be seen on the tea head.

The system of allowing anyone to skip who can get a rink together is as good as any. This is practically what has been the practice for the past couple of seasons, altho skips were elected as a matter of form. The way it worked out, one or two not elected as skips came along with their rink and were given skip ranking.

With the chasen ein the penalty system only one point is given away for substituting with a curler of a higher ranking. During the past couple of seasons when a club was short on one or two men and substitutes of equal ranking could not be obtained. The penalty system would allow a third man and skips and pay at least as high as four points for them. Sometimes they were worth it—and sometimes not. The penalty system would look like a big advantage to give the opposition four points before the game started. This year the penalty system would be a penalty system to substitute in a position below his ranking. A penalty system of some kind is advisable, and the club hopes the new system will be an improvement over the old one. The club hopes to understand a better chance of getting it the odd game playing substitute.

give us frigid weather yet, and until he does curling will have to wait.

Some of the ladies want to curl but it is doubtful if there are enough enthusiasts among the fair sex to form a ladies' club. However, it is up to the ladies. If they can get a sufficient number they will have their curling.

With Irvin Young back on the job as ice architect we can expect good curling ice this coming season. And petition is being circulated throughout the province.

It is claimed the change of the motor car license year from the calendar year to April 1 - March 31 would benefit the garage and service station business, as many car owners, who ordinarily keep their cars in winter storage until April, would use it from time to time all winter when their license is good until March 31.

The use of these cars, it is claimed, would stimulate garage and service station business.

EVERYBODY WANTS IT

The movement to have the provincial government change the motor car license year is meeting with the general approval of the motor public. It is at least in the Bassano district, and in neighboring districts from which reports have come.

The petition now being circulated by garage and service station owners and signed by car owners, asks the government to have the motor car license year run from April 1 to March 31, instead of January 1 to December 31.

The proposal has sufficient merit to warrant its immediate consideration by the government.

The change would enable car owners to use their machines from time to time all winter instead of putting them in winter storage after January 1 when they felt it inconvenient to buy a new license. The use of these cars would reflect on the garage and service station business, and benefit them considerably.

The car owner, of course, must buy his license, either in winter or in these days of reduced income the average car owner finds it most difficult to pay for his motor license around the first of the year when electric light and coal bills are high and other expense commensurate to the winter months have drained his bank account.

The proposed change in the license year would be much to his liking.

STREAMLINE

They call it that when describing the curves of the latest creation in motor cars. Sleeting, tapered rear curves from front bumper to tail light. Streamline.

The new car look radically different from the models of a couple of years ago, but the Institute of Aero-Dynamic Research tells us we "haven't seen anything yet."

Rather a formidable name—The Institute of Aero-Dynamic Research. Their offices are in New York and Toronto. They are organized for the purpose of the collection and dissemination of data relating to streamlining in all fields of transportation.

And what we see today in the streamlining of motor cars, is the A. D. R. tell us, is just the beginning of a new era in the building of the car of tomorrow will build vastly from today's models. Engineers will be allowed full play for their streamlining propensities. They will produce a car with a somewhat blunt front end, tapering gradually to the rear. (Part streamlining fish are built the way we see.)

Just then the mistress entered the kitchen. "Mary," she said sharply, "how do you like polishing the brass ornaments yet?"

"Yes, madam," she replied, "all except your ring and bracelets."

The young man strode into the newspaper office and banged his cane on the editor's desk. "What's the editor?" he shouted. "He's—he's out," replied the clerk. "What's he done this time?"

"In that advertisement for my new motor," stormed the visitor. "He's turned the second 'w' into a 'v'."

Downs: "Where's nowadays will you find the youth who can smile and yet be absolutely no talent for writing literature?"

"Oh, no; by that time I was too famous."

Here's An Moos: "Father: 'You've been down there for a long time. The last one used to hang around until the milkman called.'"

Daughter: "You see, dad, this one is the milkman."

Teacher: "What are the exports of Cuba?" "I don't know."

Where do you get your sugar?" "From the neighbors."

A Sweet Trip: "He (aboard ship): 'Your boy friends certainly sent you enough candy.'"

Also: "Why, they wanted me to have a bon bon voyage."

Nightmare Land

She (in an gallery): "So that's one of those cabaret paintings. What a dreadful place Cuba must be!"

Not to Push: "You see, all of our cars, this is the one we feel confident and justified in pushing."

"Please, teacher," said a little boy "any further questions?"

"Yes, yes; but I've got a little boy who had been studying the lesson in silence, 'where do you work?'"

Successful Hint: "You are still bothered by those relatives of yours who come down from town to eat a big Sunday dinner and then return?"

asked Mrs. Smith. "They finally took the hint, they finally took the hint."

"What did you say to them?" asked Mrs. Smith. "Nothing was said," explained the husband, "they'd soaked sponge cake every time they came."

His Difficulty: "You're lucky to find a wife who can manage on your income."

"Yes, yes; but I've got to find another income for myself now."

Bricks Are Banned: Mrs. Green (at ball game, as the referee caught and threw out a coin): "What are they talking about?"

Hubbard: "About what you throw to the next batter."

Mrs. Green: "But they aren't allowed to throw anything but the baseball, are they?"

Hospital Expert: "This look interesting, superb patience, benevolence."

Client: "That will do. It's the writing of the tailor that is to my test suit."

The Difference: "Doesn't the thought of golden sandals, glorious cliffs and a sparkling sea, make you long?"

Hubbard: "Yes, madam, 'Doesn't a summer holiday make you short?'"

The Invitation: "You look sweet enough to eat." "I do eat, when I get to go?"

Serious Mistress: "I notice that your policeman friend calls, frequently."

Cook: "I think he does, frequently. I just then the mistress entered the kitchen."

Mary: "How do you like polishing the brass ornaments yet?"

"Yes, madam," she replied, "all except your ring and bracelets."

Also! The young man strode into the newspaper office and banged his cane on the editor's desk.

Daughter: "Doesn't it provoke you when a girl is slow about getting ready to go to dinner with you?"

Yes, the longer she takes, the hungrier she gets."

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN ASSOCIATION AND LIFESAVING SOCIETY OF CANADA

CARE FOR TEETH

Stop, look and read if you are now young and you want to preserve the natural, youthful appearance of your face and, at the same time, enjoy the comfort and health which come with a healthy mouth containing sound teeth.

The food you eat builds your teeth. You cannot have well built teeth unless you use milk, green vegetables and fresh fruits during that period of life when the body is building the teeth out of the foods which are eaten.

Teeth are required to chew food and so prepare it for digestion. Foods which require close chewing should be included in the diet because the act of chewing develops the jaw properly and helps to keep the teeth and gums healthy.

In order that the teeth and gums may be kept healthy, they should be kept clean. It is not to clean them after every meal, but they should at least be cleaned after breakfast and before going to bed, using a tooth brush and a little salt and water, or a mild tooth powder.

The mouth should be rinsed after the teeth have been brushed.

The teeth should be visited twice a year so that the teeth may be kept clean and the gums healthy.

Early treatment of dental troubles prevents the teeth and gums from becoming diseased and the discomfort which would otherwise follow.

Unless the teeth and gums are properly cared for they may become diseased as the result of germs settling up on infection. What is serious about such infection is not so much the damage that may be caused locally, although this is true, but the fact that the infection may spread to other parts of the body and cause serious harm in vital organs.

Many people do not enjoy the degree of health which is possible because their teeth are not properly cared for. The absorption of food which is not properly chewed and thus digestion is interfered with. The absorption of food may be poisoning the body. Painful and restless sleep, and loss of irritability.

Good teeth are an asset to the personal appearance, but much more important is their influence upon the health of the body. The teeth in early life secure these advantages for the later years. Early dental care is not so much a luxury as it is better to act now rather than suffer regret in the years to come.

Investigations concerning health, as addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St., Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

THOUSANDS VISIT ALBERTA'S PARKS

More than 115,000 visitors, all of Alberta, registered at four of Alberta's famous national parks during the past tourist season, according to figures just received by the exact figures for Banff, Jasper, Watrous Lake, and Elk Island parks was 177,274, which does not include many who went to the mountain resorts by train. Alberta's national parks, comprising more than 4,000 square miles of mountain and lake territory, are among the province's greatest assets, and attract tourists annually from many points on the continent, as well as thousands from the cities and towns of the province itself. Turn the two Alberta ports of entry from United States, Calgary and Swift Current, nearly 10,000 Americans registered during the past season, carrying more than 50,000 passengers, while many others came into the province by way of the bordering Canadian provinces.

DISTRIBUTION OF NURSERY STOCK

The provincial forest service branch is making arrangements for distribution amongst farmers, schools and other institutions on a similar basis as last year of seedlings of spruce, lodge pole pine, etc., from stock prepared at the nurseries at Oliver park, Edmonton. This stock will be distributed on applications received up to January 1 and last year a considerable distribution was made to many farmers, schools and communities in the province. Next spring there will be considerable stock of white spruce and lodge pole pine for distribution at the same prices as last year, green ash and jack pine, Siberian larch, green ash and elm.

Java and Celebes have been connected by radiotelephone.

SNOW-MOULD TURF INJURY

The following article by W. C. Broadbent, Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology, Edmonton, should be of interest to local home owners who have experienced serious injury in their grass lawns.

During the past three years the Dominion Laboratory of Plant Pathology at Edmonton has found that the most injurious cause of injury to the grass of winter injury to lawns is not the cold, but the snow-mould.

The snow-mould is a parasite which attacks the grass, and the symptoms are first recognized as green, soft patches on the lawn, which soon die and become brown and brittle.

C.O.T. ORGANIZED

A Bassano branch of the Canadian Girls in Training was recently organized. Betty Johnston is president, Cora Morrison is vice-president, Dorothy Decker secretary, and Rose McBride treasurer. The girls met over Thursday evening.
 Last Thursday the meeting took form of a mothers and daughters gathering. Work to be covered in the coming months includes instruction in sewing, household science, etc.

WHEAT

Wheat in Store in Canada - Canadian visible supplies of wheat reached a total of $49,602,238 bushels on Oct. 27 which is almost ten million bushels larger than a year ago at the same date. Ocean shipments of wheat from Canada last week were 4,037,484 bushels.

Indices of Prices - In September the general index number of wholesale prices in Canada was 83.2 (1925=100), while the index of 1 Northern wheat at Port William was 44.9 (1925=100). This shows that prices for wheat have risen 21.1, while the price for its product, wheat, was down 33.7. The Federal International Trade Branch furnishes the figures.

Remembrance Day

Contributed by Rev. J. P. Butler, chaplain, Medicine Hat Branch, Canadian Legion, B.E.S.

The 11th day of November has been set apart by the government of Canada as "Remembrance Day."

On this day, fifteen years ago, the great war ended. A war which lasted over four years and in which 582,300 men and women of the British Empire, including 60,000 Canadians, laid down their lives for honor, justice, and freedom.

Principles of which we too should be ever ready to live or die valiantly.

Today is a holy day, sacred to the memory of our heroic dead. It is a day when we should stand with the other great dominions side by side with the Motherland.

That nearly 600,000 Canadians were under arms; that 60,000 nurses and men proved themselves equal to those who had the honor of training for active service; that thousands of broken hearts and bodies and blighted lives resulted; and that 60,000 Canadians lie sleeping in the "Gardens of the Dead" in France and other battlefields. Why? The answer is given in the words of Sir Robert Borden, prime minister: "For love of battle, not for list of conquest, but for great principles, for the cause of honor, for certain solemn pledges, to uphold principles of liberty."

At the outbreak of war, Canada had an army of 2,000 men, but six weeks later there left these shores a greater host than the famous Spanish Armada, and a larger army than Wellington commanded at Waterloo.

Namely, 50,000 men. Canada need never be ashamed of the part she played in the great war, such battles as Ypres, the Somme, Passendale, Arras, Amiens, Meuse, and Vimy, are forever emblazoned on the standard of Canadian regiments and on the hearts and minds of those who survived.

You are familiar with the following words: "My duty to my country is to love it, to obey and maintain its laws, to respect its flag, and to defend it against all enemies." This is exactly what these brave men and women did who gave their lives for the land they loved. Is it not fitting therefore, that this day should be set apart as a memorial to them, and as an opportunity for us to salute them in reverence and gratitude?

There are set up in almost every city, town and village in Canada, monuments to these heroes. Respect and care for these evidences of our country's gratitude to our lives, for on them are engrained the names of those who made the supreme sacrifice that you might live in peace and safety.

On Nov. 11th an empire will stand at attention. In speech, silence, its thoughts centered upon the brave dead. It is inspiring to know that millions of grateful people in our vast empire will take part in this service, and in the two minutes' silence listen to the spirit voices of the war dead in the great beyond as they cry:

"To you from falling hands we throw The torch—we yours to hold it high. If ye break faith with us who die, We shall not sleep though poppies grow In Flanders fields."
